Product Description

STIHL BGA 200 Battery Handheld Blower (Unit Only)

Comparable to gas, this blower gives landscapers and large property owners the power they need to tackle almost any job.

Note: Must be used with battery belt or AR-style backpack battery. Required adapters purchased separately. The BGA 200 blower not only provides nearly 25% more blowing force than the BGA 100 but is ideally suited for low-noise environments. It delivers a range of features that allow professional landscapers and homeowners with large properties to take on almost any blowing task. With no onboard battery, you can enjoy a lightweight, ergonomic design, and the quiet operation allows you to work at times and in areas where noise may be an issue. The three power levels with variable speed as well as a boost mode help tackle stubborn debris, and the cruise control setting allows you to maintain blowing force without holding down the trigger. In addition to performance features, the adjustable blower tube gives you the ability to adjust tube length to what works best for you with a single push of a button, and the metal ring provides you with durability and protection against wear.

This tool is IPX4-rated weather-resistant construction and has been designed and tested for splash water protection.
